Framing messages to engage fathers in the first 1000 days

Topic Content

This webinar will help service providers frame effective messages to fathers during their baby's crucial first years. Families do best when parents act as a team in forming a strong connection to their new baby, and this is exactly what happens in many families. In others, the stresses of the new relationship and the demands of the new baby make for less healthy outcomes. Traditionally, services that provide support to new parents have targeted mothers – and engaging fathers has been a challenge.

Time & Date: Thursday 3 August 2017, 1.30pm - 2.30pm AEST.

Evaluating the National Quality Framework (NQF)

Australian Children's Education and Care Authority (ACECQA) Newsletter Issue 6 2017

In collaboration with State and Territory Governments and the Australian Government, ACECQA has developed an evaluation framework for the NQF.

The shared framework provides all governments with a common way of understanding whether and how the NQF is meeting its objectives. Click here for further information
